■ Delegations

Deborah Martin-Downs, Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) and Jeff Payne, Deputy CAO and Director, Corporate Services, Credit Valley Conservation

Regional Council received a delegation from Deborah Martin-Downs, Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) and Jeff Payne, Deputy CAO and Director, Corporate Services, Credit Valley Conservation (CVC), who provided an update on the Region of Peel's priorities for CVC, presented 2018-2019 program updates and advised of the status of the development of CVC's 2020 budget.

Deborah Martin-Downs noted that a $200k reduction to the draft 2020 budget will be required for CVC to meet the budget target established by Regional Council. She highlighted that CVC's draft budget includes a reduction in provincial base funding in the amount of $90k, a reduction of $500k in capital funding for the Belfountain project and does not include Source Water Protection funding of $225k.

Deborah Martin-Downs stated that changes to the Conservation Authorities Act and regulations are not expected to impact CVC's budget until 2022; however, that remains uncertain.

John MacKenzie, Chief Executive Officer, Toronto and Region Conservation Authority

Regional Council received a delegation from John MacKenzie, Chief Executive Officer, Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA), who presented highlights of TRCA activities in 2019 including in the areas of watershed management, climate and infrastructure. He noted that proposed changes to the Conservation Authorities Act and regulations may require adjustments to TRCA's existing Memorandum of Understanding (MOUs) and Service Level Agreements (SLAs) with its municipal partners, and that the MOU's may need to include discretionary services that are of importance to individual municipalities.

John MacKenzie advised that the TRCA is on track to meet the budget target set by Regional Council and has revised its three year forecast as a result of the impact of reduced provincial funding.

■ Health

Community Paramedic at Clinic – Paramedic Services Update

Regional Council received a report from the Commissioner of Health Services providing an update on the Community Paramedic and Clinic Program pilot project operated by Peel Regional Paramedic Services, with funding from the Mississauga Halton Local Integration Network. The program is focused on prevention of cardiovascular disease, diabetes and falls, through validated health risk assessments, while measuring the impact of care on 911 calls and hospital emergency department use.

Over 240 individuals have accessed the program in a total of more than 3,200 one-to-one visits across three sites in the Region of Peel. Clinics have provided benefits for residents including health monitoring and social interaction. The clinics have been provided with a second year of funding to continue operating in three Peel Housing Corporation seniors buildings in Mississauga.
